1. The Magdeburg-South (M 53/D 69) airfield, about 1,000 meters square, has a sodded landing field. The hangar on the northern edge of the field was occupied by about ten soldiers wearing black epauletts, and by four or five biplanes. Obstacle lights were lit at night. The weather was fair but there was little flying with the biplanes. The flying and technical personnel were quartered in houses on Hahnemannstrasse. [REDACTED] were seen at the field.* 25X1A

Comment. The occupation of the airfield has not changed. Some Po-2s were previously seen at the field. These planes are assumed to be assigned to an army unit as courier planes. The [REDACTED] to units of the Third Shock Army.
